

The FCC should NOT mandate copyright protections for DT. For years, most people with VCRs have been able to record their favorite shows for later viewing (e.g. if they aren't going to be home during the airtime/airdate). These rules would actually hurt the networks because people would not be able to record and watch later causing backlash among the viewers.